

Academic Infectious Diseases Physician – Clinician-Researcher

The Department of Medicine at Queen's University is seeking a qualified Academic Infectious Diseases Physician to fulfill a Clinician-Researcher role.

The ideal candidate will possess methodologic and/or content expertise in an area that complements the existing strengths of Queen's Infectious Disease and Medical Microbiology research community. Candidates must provide evidence of an emerging and/or pre-existent research area and portfolio. Candidates must also have a demonstrable record of effective teaching at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels, as well as display the ability to work in a collaborative environment and possess excellent communication skills. As part of their academic profile, they will participate as an ID consultant for inpatient and outpatient services provided through the Kingston Health Sciences Centre and provide tertiary clinical care.

The candidate must hold an MD degree, and be eligible for licensure in Infectious Diseases by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed further research training in an area of direct relevance to human infectious diseases, such that they have a demonstrated ability to contribute to excellence in this area. Examples of such training would include completion of a relevant graduate (MSc or PhD) degree or comparable postgraduate fellowship training program in a relevant subspecialty area of Infectious Diseases. Preference will also be given to those who either hold or are eligible for certification by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada in Infectious Diseases.

Academic rank, salary and contractual arrangements will be commensurate with the qualifications and experience of the successful candidate.

One of Canada's leading universities, Queen's has a long reputation for academic excellence, research, and a diverse and vibrant learning environment. With its strong tradition of public service, the University has helped to shape Canadian values and policies, educating notable political and cultural figures. Queen's is located in the heart of the community in historic Kingston, midpoint between Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa, the nation's capital.

Applications are to include a letter summarizing expertise, qualifications and accomplishments relevant to the position together with a curriculum vitae, a brief biography and the names and full contact information of three referees. The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, Aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities, and LGBTQ persons. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information as to how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements: "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR, "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada". Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete. Complete applications are to be directed to: Dr. S.L. Archer, Professor and Head, Department of Medicine, c/o Jennifer Andersen, Etherington Hall, 94 Stuart Street, Kingston, Ontario K7L 3N6. Email: jennifer.andersen@queensu.ca.

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the interview process, please contact: Mrs. Jennifer Andersen email: jennifer.andersen@queensu.ca

Review of applications will commence immediately and will continue until the position is filled.